

INTRODUCTION

India's first pre-stamped inland letter sheet with an advertisement or slogan appeared April 1, 1973, promoting INDIPEX 73. The first malaria slogan appeared October 19, 1974, with the message Fever? May be malaria - Take chloroquine tablets. Early sheets were in a 4-fold format (I); a 5-fold format (II) came into use in 1992. Figures A and B illustrate the formats and fold locations. Variation in the size or shape of flaps will be mentioned where it pertains to items in the present work.

Figure A. FORMAT I: 4-fold. A - address and postage; B - return address; C - message; reverse - message; 1-4 - folds in order.

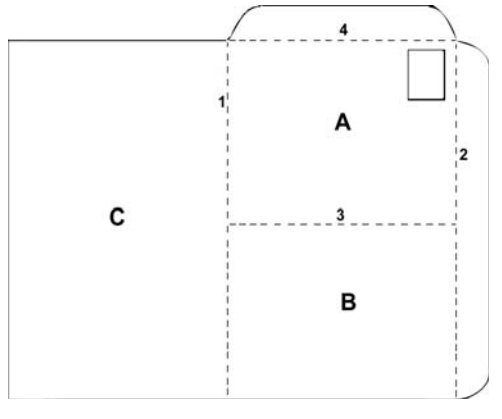

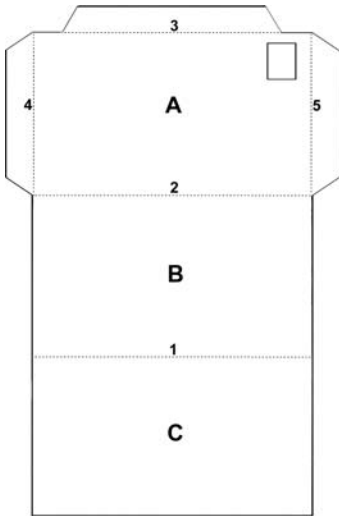

Figure B. FORMAT II: 5-fold. A - address and postage; B - return address; C - message; reverse - message; 1-5 - folds in order.

Printing on the basic sheets is in both English and Hindi. Illustrated and described below is a portion of section A of the base design for each sheet type on which a malaria message was printed.

Each type of malaria message is printed in as many as 13 languages or dialects. On the following pages the various message-language combinations are illustrated, labeled, and translated to the extent known. Each is referenced to the above sheet type used for the message, and the issue date for each sheet-message combination is provided.

Collectors seeking information about letter sheets with messages other than those pertaining to malaria should obtain the handbook Indian Inland Letter Cards Advertisements & Slogans prepared by Kotadia and Gandhi in 1999 and revised in 2000. For collectors using that handbook, the relevant numbers are cross-referenced here as K&G #.

INTRODUCTION

The listing of inland letter sheets on the following pages is presented in sequence of malaria message types and then alphabetic order of language/dialect in which the message occurs. An illustration and issue date are also given for each language/dialect in which the malaria message is found. Numbering for each letter sheet follows the example below. Each language/dialect has a two letter designation, being the first letter and next following consonant in the name.

A number of letter sheets were privately printed without postal indicia. These are listed in sequence with the official issues. Numbers are followed by a, as is the sheet type. Additional varieties are also listed in sequence with the primary issues.

First day cancels were applied using stock philatelic counter devices with date adjusted as appropriate. The cancels are presented alphabetically by city of use. For each cancel type, the dates and letter sheets on which it was used are also listed. In general, letter sheets with a given language/dialect were supplied only to those offices serving a significant population of speakers of that language/dialect.

No first day cachets have been reported.

Letter sheets with first day cancels are presented chronologically, then by language/dialect of malaria message, and then by office. They are numbered in the sequence presented.
